QUESTIONING THE SOLUTION:
The Politics of Primary Health Care and Child Survival with an in–depth critique of
ORAL REHYDRATION THERAPY

By David Werner and David Sanders with Jason Weston, Steve Babb and Bill Rodriguez
Original drawings by Alicia Brelsford

Library of Congress Catalog Card Number: 96–79528
Werner, David
Questioning the Solution: The Politics of Primary Health Care and Child Survival, with an In–Depth Critique of Oral
Rehydration Therapy / David Werner and David Sanders with Jason Weston, Steve Babb and Bill Rodriguez
Includes bibliographical references and index.
ISBN 0–9655585–1–7 (hardcover)
ISBN 0–9655585–2–5 (paperback)

Single copies of this book, in whole or in part, may be made by individuals for their own use or for review without permission from the authors or publisher. Groups wishing to reproduce, distribute or translate multiple copies of this book, whether on a nonprofit or on a commercial basis, are encouraged to contact the authors or publisher for permission.

HEALTHRIGHTS
Workgroup for People’s Health and Rights

964 Hamilton Avenue
Palo Alto CA 94301

Published in association with:
The International People’s Health Council (IPHC),
Third World Network, and Partners in Health

Copyright © 1997 by David Werner, David Sanders, Jason Weston, Steve Babb and Bill Rodriguez
All rights reserved
Printed in the United States of America on recycled paper
Questioning the Solution: The Politics of Primary Health Care and Child Survival. Werner, David. Where There is No Doctor. 1. Doyal, Lesley; Pennel Imogen -The Political Economy of Health, Pluto Press, London, 1979. (Altogether a stimulating book and a worthy contribution to current debates on the politics of health Lancet). This book inspired many of us to gaze at an ill person attending ones clinic, a group of people you interact, gender you have and society in which you live, with the glasses of Social Science, Politics and Economics. 2. Ehrenrich, Barbara and English, Deirdre ; For Her Own Good - 150 years if the Experts advice to women. Book Review Questioning the Solution: The Politics of Primary Health Care and Child Survival.David Werner and David Sanders. Palo Alto, CA: Health-Wrights. Victor Nell. Published: 1 January 1998. by Springer Science and Business Media LLC. in The Journal of Primary Prevention. The Journal of Primary Prevention, Volume 19, pp 85-90; doi:10.1023/a:1022673510344. Publisher Website. Google Scholar. Share this article. Click here to see the statistics on "The Journal of Primary Prevention". The Politics of Primary Health Care and Child Survival with an In-depth Critique of Oral Rehydration Therapy. By David Werner & David Sanders. (HealthWrights, Palo Alto, USA, 1997.) The purpose of this paper is to critically examine what has come to be known as the Child Survival Revolution, a programme launched by UNICEF to promote growth monitoring, oral rehydration therapy (OAT), breast-feeding and immunizations in the Third World. These four health interventions have collectively come to be known as GOBI or GOBI-FF if one adds the provision of food and family planning [Show full abstract] services. Two (not necessary original) hypotheses will be explored here: firstly, the child survival revolution cannot work in isolation.